Punahou Catch Their Stride and Throw Dust on Coast Defense Aggregation

Punahou 6, Coast Defense 0.

The best ball team in the Oahu League won the best game of the present pennant, race yesterday afternoon, when the Punahous trimmed the Coast Defense by the above score. Playing an errorless brand of the national game, hitting the ball on the nose when hits meant runs, and generally backing up a pitcher who was handing out big league stuff, Castle's team fully deserved to carry off the long end of the score. A big holiday crowd saw the contest, which was so much above the Oahu League average that every one went home with a broad smile.

MANAGER A. L. CASTLE
Whose team is reaping the results of his baseball experience

The pitching of Williams, the hard hitting of Billy Hoogs, and a terrific home run drive over the left field fence were the real features of the game. The blonde engineer had about everything on the pitcher's list, but above all he had excellent control, and the three passes which he issued were more than offset by his 11 strike-outs, and by the fact that only two safe hits were gathered off his delivery. Williams has a nice pitching temperament, and when he got into something of a hole in the seventh, he pitched himself out of it without losing either his smile or his nerve. At that, Williams got great support, and this undoubtedly helped his confidence. Sadtler, in particular, did stunts around the keystone sack that brought a hand more than once.

The Punahous have the edge on organization, and this was apparent in yesterday's game. An experienced bench manager can do a lot to hold his team together on and off the field, and Castle knows considerable baseball, and is able to apply it. There was no crabbing among the Puns, and this pull-together spirit can be credited to the smooth-running machine which Castle has worked up.

Lawson, who pitched almost the entire game for the Coast Defense, started off well, and for the first three frames only nine men faced him. Henshaw getting to first on an infield hit in the third, but being forced by Hoogs, who was himself thrown out trying to steal.

In the fourth the head of the batting list came up, and Sadtler struck out. Argabrite waited for one to his liking and then faced it right over the big tree, taking no chances of a return via the branch route. It was a grand swing, and seemed to disconcert Mr. Lawson to some extent.

In the very next frame the Puns put two men over. Burton was hit by a pitched ball and Lyman punted at a beautiful safe out toward first. Henshaw and Williams then fanned, and it looked as though Lawson was on an easy street again, but Hoogs hit a hard grounder to Dumshot who let the ball go through his legs. Burton came in from second, and should have been caught on the throw, which was right in the catcher's hands, but Swenson let the ball get through his fingers and not only Burton, but also Lyman, scored, the latter making a nice slide and coming under the tag.

Up to this time Williams hadn't allowed a hit, only one man having reached first on balls and he being retired on a fielder's choice which was followed by a double play, making 15 men up in five innings. In the sixth, however, Dumshot put one just inside of first, the ball being out of Lyman's reach and going for a hit. The next three were out in order. The seventh looked like a bad frame for the Puns, for after Johnson had been disposed of by the strike-out route for the third time, Nangum waited out the pitcher and drew a walk. Hundley hit sharply to Lyman, but the latter made a star stop and made the put-out unassisted. Then Thomas took a pass. O'Hara went in to bat for Corn and hit a hard one between first and second. Sadtler pulled off a great stop and throw and would have had the runner even if he hadn't stumbled on his way down the path. The ninth was a slaughter. Burton hit and Lyman followed with his second safe bunt. Both men advanced a base on a passed ball and "Kelly" Henshaw was passed. Lawson was tying high and O'Hara sent him to the bench, calling for Hundley from right field to finish the game. The

CHINESE JRS. WIN FIRST OF EXTRA SERIES

C. A. U. Jrs. 6, Pawaas 1.

A number of the afternoon regulars turned out early yesterday afternoon, in order to get a line on the Junior League brand of ball, as shown by the Chinese Athletic Union Jrs. and the Pawaas, in the first game of the tie play-off series. This was staged as the curtain raiser to the Punahou-C. D. contest. The game was a very bushy exhibition, and it is but fair to say for the benefit of those who have never seen the Juniors play before that it was far below the average of the morning league.

The Pawaas had their much-touted pitcher Joe Bush on the hill, but he only went five innings, being replaced by Mahuka. At that, Bush allowed only a couple of hits and a pair of passes, and his support was largely responsible for the six runs charged against him.

The Pawaas got their lone run in the first when Aylett hit, was sacrificed by Mahuka, and scored on Cushingham's double to left.

In the third the Chinese collected three. Kau was safe on first error, but was retired on a fielder's choice that gave Kan Fat life. Yen Chin sent one to Bush, who bungled it, and made an overthrow that sent Kan Fat home. Chin stole third, and scored on the first baseman's boot that made Kim Wat safe. The latter finally came in on third's error.

Two hits, a base on balls, a passed ball and a stolen base accounted for three more tallies in the fifth. This ended the scoring.

first man, Williams, sent a short fly to center and then up came Hoogs who had contributed a two-bagger the frame before. He hit a terrific sky-ball to deep center that fell out of reach of the fielders and romped to third, driving three runs across in front of him. The next two men went out to short and first respectively.

GAME OF GOLF HAS UNDOUBTEDLY DEVELOPED IN LAST FEW YEARS

[By Latest Mail]

NEW YORK.—The standard of baseball, we are told, has not improved much in the last 30 years. Just recently Harry Vardon made a similar statement about golf, and his expression cannot be passed by lightly. It is true that the implements with which the game is played have undergone a great transition, and the evolution of the golf ball revolutionized the game in its relation to play and the courses. This last is ancient history; what we would like to know is whether Vardon is correct in his surmises.

The first thought that comes to mind is that the olden players with their sticks and feather and gutta balls, were undoubtedly as good players as the best today.

Vardon points out that in the championships which he has won his low scores have been made in the years when the game was not supposed to be as highly developed as at present. The particular facts and figures seem to bear out his presumptions.

Remarkable Games During Month.

But if we look at this game with regard to its general development we must admit that there have been mighty and wonderful advances, which are found more especially nowadays on what we are pleased to term first class links.

The past month has been replete with startling performances, not only on this but the other side of the water. For instance, not long ago Harry Vardon and Edward Ray played in a match, medal play scoring at Aboynae, Aberdeenshire, and the former went around in 64, going out in 33 and coming back in 31. Ray, on the same course, made a 68. The course is 5745 yards in length. Then at Cheltenham, Vardon came near duplicating his former score by getting a 68. This was of no avail, however, against Ray, for he went around in a very uncanny 62. In this display he had two 2s, seven 3s, eight 4s and a 5. To show that there was no fluke about this, Ray went around in the afternoon in 66.

Tom Ball won the championship of Belgium mainly because of a brilliant 68 at the Antwerp course. J. D. Edgar, a newcomer in British championship circles, won the French open title with the splendid aggregate of 288.

Macdonald Smith Complimented.

Then we find Jerome Travers playing under par for hole after hole in his first match play contest of importance since his return to this country after his sojourn in England. Nor should we forget to mention the great scoring done by Macdonald Smith in the open championship of the Metropolitan district.

The point which strikes one most forcibly was that he never faltered a moment, but was consistently brilliant to the end. It is such performances which will give to Smith added confidence in his own powers, so that it will be no surprise to hear that he has won other championships. And in this case there should be far more praise awarded, because this score

SEVERAL LEAGUES CLOSED THE 1914 SEASON YESTERDAY

The passing of the 1914 baseball season was marked yesterday by the completion of a number of the minor league baseball pennant races. Beginning with the class B leagues and extending through to the class D division leagues in all parts of this country and Canada closed with Labor Day double-headers. Among the most prominent associations which played their final schedule contests are the Central League; Illinois-Iowa-Indiana League; Texas State League; Tri-State League; Canadian, Colonial and Northern Leagues; Atlantic League; Central Association; K. I. T. League; Nebraska State League; Western Association and Western Canada League.

The two major leagues have still one month of play ahead for they are not scheduled to end their flag chasing activities until October 7. Before that date rolls around every league enrolled in the N. A. P. B. L. except the American, National and Pacific Coast leagues, will have closed their season. The far western association boasts the longest period of schedule play for the Pacific Coast League began play on March 31 and continues until October 25.

Bunts and Bounders

Four men were hit by pitcher in the opening game.

Charley Lyman can go some when he's trying to beat out a bunt.

Corn had that do-or-die expression when he faced Williams—and died.

A couple of foul flies back of the right field bleachers nearly accounted for a pair of roof-birds.

Dobski, formerly of the 2d Infantry, but now a seaway soldier, went in as a pinch whiffer in the ninth.

The double play in the second, Lyman to Hoogs, across the diamond, was one of the fastest seen here for some time.

Lynch was over-anxious in the eighth when he tried to field O'Brien's sharp grounder, and gave the ball an awful flight.

Williams was putting 'em right across the letters yesterday, and he had the Coast Defenders swinging and stepping back at the same time.

Sadtler had to quit after the seventh, to catch a train for Schofield, and "the other" Brewer took his place. He accepted two chances in the eighth but didn't contribute with the stick.

The army was divided against itself yesterday, nearly all the mobile soldiers rooting for the Punahous, on which four soldiers were playing, while the Coast Artillerymen were of course pulling for their own team.

Sadtler made some stops round second in practice that would have been marvels in actual play. Then, in the second frame he dug a poor throw from Williams out of the dirt, forcing Hundley.

The Denver-Pueblo Construction Company was recently fined $50 for violating the city ordinance which provides for a wage of $2.50 a day for eight hours.

HUNTING AND FISHING TRIP IS BIG SUCCESS

Will Result in Plans for the Organization of Hawaii Tuna Club, at Four Today

Following a week's successful hunting and fishing expedition about a score of local sportsmen returned this morning expressing regrets that the trip had not been twice as long. Kahoolawe was the scene of the adventures of the party where wild goats to the number of 196 were taken, besides large bags of the many game fish with which the waters in that vicinity abound.

On board the good ship Kaena of the Eben P. Low fleet the party left Honolulu bright and early last Tuesday morning and reached Honolulu on the return trip at eight o'clock this morning.

As a result of this trip it is announced that a meeting will be held at four o'clock this afternoon in the rooms of the Commercial Club for the purpose of discussing plans and laying down a tentative organization of the Hawaii Tuna Club, which club will be affiliated with the Catalina Island Tuna Club. For the past year and a half a number of enthusiasts with rod and reel have been planning such an organization and with this end in view have thoroughly whipped the waters around the various islands of the Hawaiian group to determine whether the game fishing here would warrant the formation of a club. Their decision is unanimous that better fishing cannot be found anywhere in the world.

The personnel of the Kahoolawe party are:
